ABOUT THE EVENT

We are all living through unprecedented times, and the full impact on workplace mental health is yet to be seen. COVID changed the social landscape of the workplace almost overnight. While we've all worked to adapt to the so-called 'new normal', a combination of the sudden change and the new environmental pressures have undeniably taken a toll. Whether it's coming to grips with the loss of colleagues and friends, dealing with redundancies and standdowns, or working remotely or in dispersed, digital teams, all these new factors are affecting our mental health.

And even if you feel you've adjusted to the short-term effects, we now find ourselves facing the long-term impacts of this change. As we now face ongoing disruption and uncertainty, feelings of stress and anxiety are on the rise, and many of us are left feeling overwhelmed by the need to stay up-to-date as the situation continues to evolve. It has never been more critical that you possess the psychological skills to effectively manage your mental health and well-being.

Psychologist and workplace mental health expert Melissa Harries has supported the development of psychologically safe workplaces and mentally healthy teams across all industries. Over two half-day sessions, Melissa will equip you with the skills and knowledge to better understand and manage your own mental health and well-being, and also to help support those around you. Deepen your understanding of anxiety, stress, and depression, and acquire skills to boost your resilience and optimise performance during this difficult time.

YOUR FACILITATOR

Melissa's mission is to enable organisations and individuals to develop the skills to enhance mental health and wellbeing. She encourages a proactive and effective response to any and all of life's demands, regardless of how challenging they may be.
