ABOUT THE EVENT

Despite ambitious initiatives to boost participation, women remain significantly underrepresented in senior roles. Aspiring leaders in this environment must practice reflective thinking, self-awareness, planning and strategy. They must identify critical career opportunities, understand and make a case for their unique value proposition as a leader, and negotiate with skill. Successful leaders take their career into their own hands, strategically driving their advancement.

This hands-on, two-day interactive learning session will equip you with a practical leadership plan that you can use to navigate a successful career and advance to senior levels.

Through an intimate panel conversation with established women leaders in energy and resources, you will explore real-life examples of how the concepts explored in the workshop have played out in the careers of the women paving the way.

An unmissable opportunity for aspiring and emerging leaders to up-skill and fortify your leadership talents.

WE ARE GOING VIRTUAL!

Events will be delivered live with the assistance of Video Streaming technology to allow delegates and speakers to participate and interact from their office, their home or wherever they may be. Some events may include both in person and remote access elements depending on the situation. Information regarding these arrangements will be sent to affected delegates and speakers directly.

DAY ONE

Leadership foundations for energy and resources

- ▶ Contextualise women's leadership for the energy and resources sector
- ▶ Manage key relationships and dynamics
- ▶ Understand the capabilities, attributes, and skills of an influential and authentic leader

Transformational leadership to uplift team performance

- ▶ Manage change and transition for individuals and teams
- ▶ Challenge, support, and empower your team
- ▶ Leverage team dynamics to cultivate environments for optimal performance

Successful coaching and team development

- ▶ Explore the fundamentals of neuro-coaching for team development
- ▶ Identify coaching opportunities to tailor development for individual needs
- ▶ Provide effective constructive and motivational feedback

PANEL - The power of networks

No woman is an island, and your career progression will depend on establishing a powerful network of colleagues and sponsors. The same is true for the women coming up through the ranks behind you. You are a pioneer and a leader already. How can you maximise the opportunities presented to you, and extend a helping hand to those in your wake?

- ▶ Build powerful relationships with sponsors
- ▶ Identify opportunities to support your women colleagues
- ▶ Maintain career progression through disruption

DAY TWO

Influence, negotiation and persuasive communications

- ▶ Cultivate a relationship of trust based on empathy and common goals
- ▶ Design strategies for effective stakeholder management
- ▶ Develop techniques of persuasion with self-coaching and “conversational intelligence”

Successfully navigating the conflict curve

- ▶ Proactively manage conflict and tackle tough conversations
- ▶ Understand constructive vs destructive conflict
- ▶ Develop and sustain a complex organisational ecosystem

Resilient leadership in a high-pressure environment

- ▶ Foster self-care and resilience, personally and in your team
- ▶ Manage periods of high-pressure to boost capacity and productivity
- ▶ Develop systems and processes to enhance team performance

Leadership in action

- ▶ Reflect on key themes, skills and strategies explored
- ▶ Share your personal insights, and learn from the insights of your peers
- ▶ Build a realistic, incremental action plan for real-world application
