CULTIVATE MOMENTUM FOR FEMALE LEADERSHIP

Only 16 percent of Australia's STEM-qualified workforce is female, leaving a significant inequality in the representation of female leaders. To improve these statistics, the Australian Government, in partnership with the Australian Academy of Science and the Australian Academy of Engineering & Technology, have initialised the Decadal Plan for women in STEM. The plan increases the visibility and engagement of STEM in education and other association programs such as Superstars of STEM.

However, focusing solely on encouraging females into the industry without fixing the leaky pipeline will cause more harm than good. Junior leaders are excited to fix the world's problems, but see a lack of career potential and hovering negative stigmas, causing us to lose fresh thinking as they look elsewhere for career establishment.

Join us, along with leaders of each sub-sector, to collaborate and converse on the vital leadership skills for female leaders. Hear how to become a high capacity leader and nurture supportive workplace cultures for female leadership, creating momentum for career growth and life-changing science. Build the foundations for above-and-beyond leadership and tackle the negative issues plaguing the industry. You will leave with a personalised action plan to transform your leadership journey and infuse the benefits of female leadership throughout your organisation.

- ▶ Sharpen your leadership skills to promote yourself & your work
- ▶ Tangible strategies to create innovative & adaptable leaders
- ▶ Embody the leader who uncovers the negative stigmas & creates positive change
- ▶ Master communication techniques & engage business stakeholders with empathy & influence

WHO WILL ATTEND?

Participants will come from STEM related disciplines across business, Government and education / academia in a variety of roles spanning:

- ▶ Senior Executive / Management
- ▶ Director
- ▶ Head of Divisions
- ▶ Researcher / Senior Researcher
- ▶ Women's Leadership Program Managers
- ▶ Research and Development Managers
- ▶ Deputy Manager
- ▶ Scientists
- ▶ Lecturers
- ▶ Professors
- ▶ Engineers
- ▶ Technicians
- ▶ Analysts
- ▶ Consultants

WHAT OUR DELEGATES ARE SAYING

“Worth my while attending, as very useful tips from leading women in STEM.”

“Enjoyable, interactive conference with a lot of key points to take away and apply.”

“The summit was a great way to boost your confidence and know what is occurring in the industry for others leader. The two days provided insights on how to develop the skills to manage challenging issues in the workplace, while providing a self-confidence boost in my own abilities and a great networking opportunity with other women in STEM careers.”

“Engaged high quality presenters, each with a unique experience in STEM.”

STAYING AUTHENTIC WHEN DECISIONS ARE NOT EASY

CASE STUDY 9:00 - 9:50

As a leader in STEM today, the need to stay authentic is paramount, though sometimes challenging to maintain. How do you deal with vague opportunities and tough decisions without questioning yourself each time? Leanne Fry leads the innovation, technology and information security branch of AUSTRAC, and has learned that as a leader it means sticking to your values and learning to trust your call. Listen in as Leanne shares her wisdom as a leader to value your authentic self and make the call that counts.

THE JOURNEY FROM TECHNICAL LEADER TO STRATEGIC LEADER

CASE STUDY 9:50 - 10:40

Transitioning from a technical role into a senior leadership position doesn't always look like a straight road, it can have twists, turns, bumps and redirections. However the journey, the reminder is to not give up on your career dreams and seize all opportunities that come your way, as they may lead to unexpectedly great places.

Melissa started her career as an Electronic Warfare Linguist in the Royal Australian Navy and is now the Chief Technology Officer of Australia for Dell, through the journey she has learnt in her life that to navigate the road to success, you need to be open to new routes, be confident in your current abilities and find leaders who will guide you along the way.

Melissa Osborne
Chief Technology Officer
Dell Technologies

MORNING TEA 10:40 - 10:55

CHAMPIONING FEMALES WITHIN STEM

PANEL 10:55 - 11:55

54% of female leaders are more likely to leave STEM than males. Systemic and structural problems block the progression of females into senior positions, potentially leading to talented and innovative leaders changing industries entirely. So how can we protect the development and ambitions of female STEM leaders, especially those of diverse backgrounds?

THE ART & SCIENCE OF COMMUNICATION

EXPERT COMMENTARY 11:55 - 12:45

Building rapport with diverse groups of stakeholders can be a challenge for any leader. However, when you have mastered the art of connecting, interpersonal communication becomes a breeze. Naomi is an expert in Conversational Intelligence®, which is the hardwired ability to connect and navigate with others. Engage with Naomi as she shares the art and science of conversations to help you take a strategic approach to confidently communicating with each stakeholder.

Naomi Abbott
Director
Conscious Presence

LUNCH 12:45 - 1:45

INSPIRE COLLABORATION & CREATE SUSTAINABLE CHANGE

CASE STUDY 1:45 - 2:35

Throughout your career, you will face situations where you need to collaborate with government, non-government, corporate and/or research sectors to support reform. Knowing how to navigate the relationships with and between stakeholders is vital to create sustainable action. Sharon represents the Murdoch Children's Research Institute on policy issues to the government, service and private sector. Hear from Sharon as she shares strategies to empower stakeholders to create meaningful change.

Sharon Goldfeld
Director, Population Health
Murdoch Children's Research Institute

ESTABLISH INNOVATIVE & EFFECTIVE TEAMS

CASE STUDY 2:35 - 3:25

The strength of an organisation is based on the health and dynamism of its people. Leaders must learn how to create and nourish their teams. The success of Australia's top protein production facility has been based on the innovative and resilient mindsets of its people, which Prof Linda Lua has developed. Linda will share her journey and strategies to sustain the momentum in challenging circumstances.

Linda Lua
Founding Director, Protein Expression Facility
University of Queensland

AFTERNOON TEA 3:25 - 3:40

NETWORK FOR SUCCESS

EXPERT COMMENTARY 3:40 - 4:30

Your ability to foster strategic networks will enable you to broaden your sphere of influence. As you intentionally improve your networking skills and leverage relationships, you gain access to new possibilities. Karen will explore practical strategies that you can apply to your role, reaping the benefit of rapport and influence in your career.

Karen Whittingham
Director
Impact Psychology Pty Ltd

NETWORKING CANAPÉS 4:30 - 5:30

Continue to network while you enjoy complimentary refreshments.

LEADERSHIP STARTS WITH A CHOICE

KEYNOTE

9:00 - 9:50

Mary-Ellen has held a dynamic career in leadership across the public and private sectors, championing female engagement for STEM. She has realised that taking advantage of all situations that come your way, even negative ones, can be an opportunity to advance your career and lift other female leaders. Learn from Mary-Ellen as she explains how dedication to learning and showing up on the hard days produces a lasting leadership legacy for future female leaders.

LUNCH

12:45 - 1:45

WORK-LIFE BALANCE IS A LIFELONG EXPERIMENT

PANEL

1:45 - 2:35

You want to succeed in your career without compromising life outside of work. We don't have a stock standard solution to work-life balance, so it's best to think of it as a lifelong experiment. Our panel of diverse leaders understand the significance of a healthy work-life balance and will share their unique and simple approaches for pursuing a career, without getting caught up in it.

POST-SUMMIT WORKSHOP

26 MARCH

LEAD WITH EMOTIONAL INTELLIGENCE

The capacity to be in control of one's emotions and demonstrate empathy is a skill that distinguishes leaders from followers. To step-up in the STEM industry, the ability to communicate effectively with stakeholders is invaluable and leaders who recognise the value of communication can create a connected, successful workplace.

In this interactive workshop, you will discover how emotional intelligence can dramatically enhance your leadership capability through greater awareness of yourself and your stakeholders, providing you with the skills to communicate and instil an emotionally healthy culture in your team and organisation.

The fundamentals of Emotional Intelligence (EQ)

- ▶ Understand EQ and its importance in life and the workplace
- ▶ Gain greater awareness of your strengths, development areas and emotional triggers
- ▶ Uncover insights into how to embrace your self-awareness, social awareness and empathy

Communicate with confidence and credibility

- ▶ How does EQ impact communication?
- ▶ Discover the power of mindful verbal and non-verbal communication
- ▶ Tailor communication for specific audiences by responding to their needs

The role of EQ in the workplace

- ▶ Discover the benefits of an emotionally intelligent workforce
- ▶ Encourage honesty, transparency, and collaboration in your teams and organisation
- ▶ Develop strategies to lead, motivate, and influence others to create high performing teams

Effective engagement with external stakeholders

- ▶ Lead and manage stakeholder relationships by building strong connections
- ▶ Cultivate courageous conversations
- ▶ Sharpen communication skills for positive stakeholder outcomes
